 United States Bankruptcy Court
 Southern District of New York
 One Bowling Green
 New York, New York 10004

Re: In re: Mallett, Inc.
Case No.: 21-11619 (JLG)

Dear Judge Garrity:

We represent Creditor, 929 Madison Avenue, LLC ("Creditor"), in connection with the above-referenced matter. We respectfully submit this correspondence requesting a 90-day adjournment of the February 15, 2022 Plan confirmation hearing date, and consequently the February 8, 2022 Plan objection deadline, as a result of Debtor's dilatory behavior in providing basic, limited discovery discussed with the Court at the September 30, 2021 hearing, now necessitating motion practice and delay. Remarkably, Debtor Mallett, Inc. ("Debtor") declined to consent to this request.

The request is necessary to permit sufficient time for Debtor to produce information necessary both to evaluate the quantum of Creditor's planned administrative expense claim filing, and to permit Creditor to evaluate whether Debtor's insider debt -- which is the vast majority of debt owed by Debtor¹ -- should be subject to an action for equitable subordination or a similar claim. For the reasons set forth below, Creditor was exceptionally diligent in seeking the necessary discovery in good faith, but Debtor failed to timely confirm it would voluntarily provide the requested information. Furthermore, once Debtor finally did respond, it failed to confirm it would provide all of the necessary discovery while simultaneously refusing to provide the limited discovery in advance of the objection deadline. Indeed, as the discovery will directly impact Creditor's possible objection to the Plan -- and the Court's own ability to determine whether the Plan is confirmable -- if the adjournment is not granted, Creditor (and the Court) will be significantly prejudiced by its efforts to amicably resolve these issues in good faith, as the Court directed, so as to avoid motion practice. Additionally, as Creditor remains amenable to continued, informal mediation of its claim with the Subchapter V Trustee, the adjournment will permit additional time for the parties to amicably resolve any issues, which could obviate the need for a Plan objection in the first instance.

By way of background, on September 30, 2021, the Court held a hearing on Debtor's Motion to Reject its Lease with Creditor. During that hearing, in response to concerns raised by Creditor regarding, among other things, Debtor's failure to provide a copy of its settlement agreement with its subtenant, Stella McCartney (the "Settlement Agreement"), and the substantial insider debt asserted to be due and owing by Debtor, the Court directed the parties to meet with the Subchapter V Trustee to discuss Debtor providing information to Creditor and the potential resolution of Creditor's objections.

On October 15, 2021, Creditor, Debtor, and Subchapter V Trustee engaged in a conference to discuss a path forward toward resolving Creditor's claims and for Debtor to provide certain discovery. To that end, Debtor advised that it believed a Confidentiality Order was necessary for it to produce documents related to the Settlement Agreement. Therefore, on that same day, Creditor circulated a proposed, form Confidentiality Order to permit Debtor to disclose the Settlement Agreement and related documentation. As Debtor was fully aware, Creditor also sought discovery related to Debtor's insider claims.

On October 25, 2021, having received no response from Debtor, Creditor e-mailed again requesting Debtor approve the proposed Confidentiality Order. More than a six weeks later, on December 2, 2021, Debtor finally provided edits to the Confidentiality Order. On December 9, 2021, the parties finalized the language of the proposed, form Confidentiality Order. Unfortunately, despite finalizing the Confidentiality Order, Debtor still failed to produce any documents.

Thereafter, having still not received any documents despite the Court's direction and entry of the Confidentiality Order, Creditor initiated a telephone conversation with Debtor in or around ¹ Debtor's scheduled liability totaling $13,191,709.00, of which $11,879,790.00 consists of insider debt, representing 90%.

early December 2021, again requesting that, in lieu of Creditor filing a formal 2004 Motion, Debtor voluntarily provide limited paper discovery regarding the Settlement Agreement and insider claims and, thereafter, produce a representative of Debtor for deposition. Debtor promised to consider voluntarily providing discovery upon the receipt of particularized discovery demands. On December 17, 2021, Creditor sent an e-mail to Debtor memorializing the telephone conversation, issuing five (5) narrowly tailored document demands, and requesting that Debtor confirm whether it would voluntarily produce discovery and a representative for deposition.²

On December 22, 2021, having again received no response from Debtor, Creditor e-mailed again requesting Debtor agree to voluntarily respond to the limited discovery demands. On December 27, 2021, Debtor responded claiming that it was “trying to touch base with the Subchapter [V T]rustee first” before agreeing to respond to the discovery requests – notwithstanding the fact that it had already agreed to the request subject to entry of a Confidentiality Order two months earlier. On January 3, 2022, Creditor sent yet another e-mail requesting Debtor provide limited discovery; this time demanding a response by the close of business on January 6, 2022. Additionally, in light of Debtor’s delay in providing the necessary discovery, Creditor requested an adjournment of the Plan confirmation and objection deadlines.

On January 7, 2022, Creditor advised that it would begin an “informal document production” to “get the ball rolling” without confirming that it would respond to all five (5) of the limited document demands, produce a representative for a deposition, or consent to an adjournment of the Plan deadlines. On that same date, Creditor requested clarification as to whether Debtor would produce a representative for deposition and consent to an extension of time for plan confirmation. Debtor responded by providing a few documents which do not satisfy Creditor’s limited demands, suggesting continued informal mediation with the Subchapter V Trustee before any deposition, and claiming that Debtor will not provide the documents before the objection deadline -- prejudicially demanding that Creditor “make your objection without having full discovery.”³ As a result of Debtor’s delay, obfuscation, and refusal to proceed in good faith, Creditor now has no choice but to make a Rule 2004 application to secure the discovery.

In light of the above, it is clear that Creditor was exceptionally diligent in abiding by the Court’s direction to proceed in good faith to secure a Confidentiality Order to permit the production of limited discovery without the need for judicial intervention. Unfortunately, despite weeks of requests from Creditor, Debtor has failed to reciprocate in kind. Additionally, Debtor refuses to provide the discovery in advance of the Plan objection deadline, in a clear attempt to prejudice Creditor by refusing to permit it the opportunity to examine the basis for the substantial insider debt. Debtor apparently hopes to push through an unwarranted plan wherein its insiders receive the vast majority of the estate assets without disclosing the basis for their claims in the first instance. This type of opaque proceeding is contrary to the purpose of the Bankruptcy Code which requires transparency from the Debtor.

Therefore, in order to ensure an orderly Plan confirmation process with full disclosure of the Debtor's alleged debts, Creditor respectfully requests that the Court adjourn the Plan confirmation and objection deadlines by 90-days to permit Rule 2004 motion practice, discovery, and settlement discussions to proceed.

We are available to discuss this, or any other matter, at the Court's convenience.

Respectfully submitted,

Dear Anthony,

I am providing Stella McCartney documents subject to the confidentiality agreement. Most of the information about the loans will come from statements by the Debtor and creditors although there are 2 loan documents attached. The client is looking for more.

Before formal depositions, the trustee suggested informal mediation. The Debtor is agreeable.

I don't think under any circumstances you will get what you want before the objection deadline, so as a practical matter, I think you may have to make your objection without having full discovery. In addition, the deadline is only a week from the hearing. I don't know if the Court would permit us to move that deadline, or my reply deadline on that timetable. In short, I don't think I can agree to move that deadline.

Mark:

Following up again on the attached and below. While I appreciate you're desire to speak with the Chapter 5 Trustee first, we're in a position where we cannot reasonably wait much longer for an answer, particularly with the plan objection deadline approaching. Therefore, we ask that you provide a response regarding whether you will voluntarily respond to the discovery by close of business on Thursday, January 6, 2022. If we do not hear from you before then, we will need to request the Court issue a 2004 Order so we can obtain the discovery without any further delay.

Additionally, as we are still waiting for a response regarding whether the discovery will be provided voluntarily, and we anticipate it will take some time for Debtor to provide the discovery in either case, it is unlikely that we will receive the discovery sufficiently in advance of the February 8, 2022 to assess whether it would impact a possible plan objection. Therefore, we request that you agree to an adjournment of the plan objection deadline to provide sufficient time to obtain the sought after discovery in advance of the adjourned deadline.

Hope you had a happy and healthy new year
